REFLECT

GOD'S PEOPLE GATHER

Our readings today remind us of the larger story of the Bible, of God's purposes and promises for the world. Because of humanity's rejection of God, as told in Genesis, human communities were first dispersed. Isaiah proclaims that one day God will gather these communities to be healed and reconciled with God. In Luke's Gospel, Jesus echoes Isaiah and teaches that all peoples in God's promised future "will recline at table in the kingdom of God." Notice that in Isaiah, the nations coming to God do not lose their ethnicity or unique identity. They bring their own distinct cultural gifts to God's table. Each people has its unique history with God, has received distinct blessings from God, and each is accountable to God. Today, we live in a global and multi-cultural Church. When God's diverse peoples gather in worship today, may we honor and celebrate each other's gifts and blessings.

Liturgical Living for Every Day

Extraordinary Ministers of Holy Communion

When the number of priests and deacons is insufficient for the orderly and timely distribution of Communion for a large number of worshipers, instituted acolytes and laypeople may assist as extraordinary ministers of Holy Communion.

Usually such ministers participate in a diocesan training program to learn about Eucharistic theology and the rubrics pertaining to the administration and reception of Holy Communion. Then the parish priest in a ceremony from the Book of Blessings commissions them for their ministry. These ministers should be people of good repute who demonstrate faith and devotion to the Eucharist, as well as compassion for the entire Body of Christ, especially those in need.

Extraordinary ministers of Holy Communion may be appointed indefinitely, for a limited period, or even for a single occasion. The Roman Missal includes a blessing that the priest may use during a Mass when there are insufficient ministers present. He may appoint someone on the spot to assist for that single service.

Communion ministers may enter the sanctuary at a convenient time, such as the Sign of Peace. But they do not approach the altar until the priest has received Communion. They receive Communion and their vessels from the priest or deacon. They distribute Communion from assigned stations. After Communion, they return the vessels to a designated place. If the bishop permits it, ministers of the Blood of Christ may consume what remains in their chalice of distribution. A priest, deacon, or instituted acolyte purifies the vessels with water after Communion or after Mass, swallowing whatever crumbs and droplets remain. Communion ministers or sacristans may then wash the vessels with soap and water. Extraordinary ministers of Holy Communion are also appointed to bring Communion to the sick in homes and hospitals, and to provide viaticum for the dying.

PRAYER OF THE WEEK

Twentieth Sunday in Ordinary Time

O God, who cause the minds of the faithful to unite in a single purpose,
grant your people to love what you command
and to desire what you promise,
that, amid the uncertainties of this world,
our hearts may be fixed on that place
where true gladness is found.

Through our Lord Jesus Christ, your Son, who lives and reigns with you in the unity of the Holy Spirit,
God, for ever and ever.
